

THE FRANK MCCOMB QUARTET

Frank McComb is the creative synthesis of various musical universes, where the soul of Donny Hathaway and Stevie Wonder meets the jazz and fusion of Herbie Hancock, the 70s funk, the Rhythm & Blues and the gospel.

Frank McComb is in effect the contemporary face of soul music, preserving in his music the taste of the "old school" that comes straight to the heart, accompanied by arrangements and innovative sounds.

Born in 1970, originally from Cleveland, Ohio, he began his career in the world of music when he was only twelve years old when he became passionate about the piano thanks to his aunt.

The artist's training takes place directly on the field, starting to play around the States already at the age of fifteen, and no longer stop since then. Highly sought after on stage all over the world, she has played with the giants of world music: Teena Marie, Chaka Khan, Philip Bailey, Lalah Hathaway, Terri Lynn Carrington, Phyllis Hyman and Teddy Pendergrass, Marcus Miller, Richard Bona, Branford Marsalis, Prince, and others.

With Columbia Records he released the albums "Buckshot LeFonque" and "Music Evolution" as singer of the group "Buckshot Lafonque", known to most for the wonderful success "Another day".

After being also contracted for Motown Records, he decides to manage his work in person and in 2005 he founded the independent label Boobeescot Music. We must listen to it to believe in the magic that its music and its voice can create.
